

ADR LUNCHTIME SERIES

Intuitive Reasoning: A Whole Brain Approach to Problem Solving

More often than not, we approach problems, conflicts, and life-decisions with only half of our resources – just the analytical mind. A growing body of evidence shows that our intuition is working all the time. The key to the “whole brain” approach is to understand and utilize intuition as well as the analytical mind. The speaker will present a workable model for starting to apply intuitive reasoning to a wide range of life situations, including dispute resolution, conflict transformation interventions, and personal-life decision-making.
